

After we finished our journey, we arrived at Gressenhall. We met this man and woman called Jim and Rachel and they were our tourists. First of all, we were split into two groups and we were the first to go into the Edwardian school. Before school, due to our brains, we would do a class drill to warm our brains up.

After that, we swapped groups and we were learning about the workhouse and the other group was learnt about the Edwardian schools. In handwriting everyone's handwriting had to be the same so the teacher can understand.

Later that day, we went to Dreamy Hollow. We went to see the trenches and objects that were used in WW1 (bayonet). They told us that if you didn't have a gas mask you had to urinate over your handkerchief because of the gas. After the gas (Chlorine) you wouldn't want to sit on the muddy floor because the acidic smoke (Chlorine) is in the muddy floor so you wouldn't want to sit on the floor because you could get a butt injury.

Later on, we went to see how we would carry an injured man on a stretcher. If a soldier was about to die they would get their best mate to read them their favourite verse in the bible. At the end we had a war memorial.

Jonathan Mayondi